SAFE AND COMFORT

The Ferretti Yacht 650 immediately strikes the eye for its extensively renovated profile, which makes of it a truly distinctive model. Its outer silhouette is characterized by an aerodynamic flybridge and new fiberglass decorative elements that "cut" through the profile of the glazing in the superstructure. The slender lines of the Ferretti Yachts 650 are further enhanced by the yacht's aft area, specifically designed to ensure easy and safe storage and launch of the tender while increasing the guests' onboard comfort.

INTERIOR LIVING

SOPHISTICATED

An unprecedented decoration connects the windows of the three cabins below, which have been widened to let through even more natural light. The pilot station dashboard has also been restyled, resulting in an even more sophisticated and elegant look.

The TaiHe Dian editions are developed internally by Ferretti, and reflect an in-house design capability which represents a functional, technical and emotional philosophy applied to yacht design. It draws inspiration from the most important building of the Forbidden City in Beijing, China - renowned for its luxurious architecture and prized furnishings -, where the official ceremonies were held in the presence of the Emperor himself.

SILENCE

In this new project the underdeck layout draws inspiration from that of the Ferretti 620 and includes three double cabins and three separate heads, benefiting from the increased brightness thanks to the new glazing. The intelligent design also provides further sound isolation characteristics throughout the living quarters. The systems operating also at night time - such as the genset and the air conditioning - are installed at the extreme stern, in the engine room. The same is true for the anti-rolling gyro, which may be installed upon request. In this way, the distance between these systems and the Owner's bed is extended to approximately 7 metres, with four soundproof bulwarks and three rooms in between.
